

7-Day B2B Wholesale Market Entry & Budget Allocation

Strategic 7-Day B2B Wholesale Acquisition Sprint for Artisan Nepali Footwear

1. Days 1-2: Portfolio Refinement & Catalog Production

For an artisan footwear brand from Nepal, the first two days must focus on converting heritage craftsmanship into a high-end wholesale asset. We will invest in professional-grade photography that highlights the material quality—specifically the vegetable-tanned leathers—and the hand-stitched details that international boutiques crave. The budget is allocated to high-resolution product photography and a clean, minimalist line sheet that clearly outlines wholesale pricing tiers, Minimum Order Quantities (MOQs), and lead times for artisanal production. This is non-negotiable; international buyers will judge your capacity based on the professionalism of your initial presentation.

KEY STRATEGIC TAKEAWAY: Invest in high-fidelity imagery and a clear line sheet to establish immediate professional credibility with international buyers.

2. Day 3: Strategic Prospect Qualification

Days three and four are dedicated to intelligent prospecting. Rather than broad outreach, we are targeting high-end boutique owners in Europe and North America who specialize in 'slow fashion' and 'sustainable craft.' We will use the allocated $200 for premium access to B2B databases and trade directories to isolate buyers who currently stock high-end accessories. The goal is to build a high-intent, verified list of 50 key accounts that align with the brand's positioning. This removes the 'spray and pray' model, ensuring your outreach is focused solely on decision-makers.

KEY STRATEGIC TAKEAWAY: Prioritize 50 high-intent boutique accounts over mass outreach to ensure higher conversion for sample requests.

3. Days 4-5: Personalized Outreach Execution

Days four and five are the 'Outreach Engine' phase. Utilizing automated B2B sequencing tools, we will launch personalized campaigns emphasizing the uniqueness of Nepali craftsmanship and the brand's ethical production story. The $450 allocated here covers software subscriptions and potential paid lead generation tools to bypass email friction. The messaging must avoid 'mass marketing' tones and focus on the story of the artisan and the durability of the footwear. Every interaction should pivot towards a Sample Request.

KEY STRATEGIC TAKEAWAY: Use narrative-driven, personalized messaging to convert prospects into active sample-request leads.

4. Days 6-7: Logistics, Closing, and Follow-up Preparation

The final two days focus on the infrastructure of international fulfillment. To build trust with international wholesale partners, we must have a streamlined process for shipping samples—handling customs, duties, and logistics transparency. The $300 buffer covers initial sample logistics and follow-up assets. We will proactively provide buyers with shipping estimates and estimated arrival times for samples to remove any 'logistical anxiety' from the buyer's perspective. Establishing yourself as a reliable supply chain partner is as important as the quality of the leather itself.

KEY STRATEGIC TAKEAWAY: Provide friction-free sample logistics to prove you are a reliable, capable international supply chain partner.

Budget Allocation & Resource Breakdown

Day / Focus	Budget Allocation ($)	Key Activities	Target Deliverable
1-2: Digital Asset Audit	$350	Portfolio photography, line sheet design	Professional B2B Lookbook
3: Buyer Qualification	$200	LinkedIn Sales Nav/Trade directory research	Validated Prospect List (50)
4-5: Outreach Engine	$450	Email automation setup, personalized sequencing	150 Outreach Sent
6-7: Closing & Follow-up	$300	Sample logistics setup, lead nurturing	5 Sample Request Inquiries