

7-Day B2B Wholesale Market Expansion & Capital Allocation Budget

A 7-Day Growth Sprint focused on International Wholesale Market Entry for Nepali Artisanal Footwear.

1. Day 1-2: Digital Asset & Catalog Development

The initial phase focuses on converting your artisanal narrative into a high-conversion B2B asset. We will allocate budget toward professional product photography and a digital catalog that highlights the Nepali craftsmanship and supply chain transparency. This asset is non-negotiable for international buyers who equate high-quality visuals with operational reliability. Focus on documenting the leather sourcing process and the human element behind the footwear to differentiate your brand from mass-produced competitors. This serves as the 'trust factor' in your wholesale pitch.

KEY STRATEGIC TAKEAWAY: High-quality, storytelling-driven visual assets are your primary leverage in the international wholesale market.

2. Day 3: Buyer Qualification & Database Building

With the catalog ready, we move to identifying the correct buyer persona: boutique store owners, high-end catalog retailers, and independent fashion curators. We will invest in specialized B2B database tools to scrape contact information for procurement officers. The budget here covers premium access to outreach software and LinkedIn Sales Navigator to ensure your messages reach the decision-makers rather than generic 'info@' mailboxes. Accuracy in targeting prevents wasted ad spend and operational friction.

KEY STRATEGIC TAKEAWAY: Precision targeting of procurement leads is more cost-effective than broad-spectrum digital advertising.

3. Day 4-5: Sample Distribution & Direct Outreach

We will utilize a 'Sample-First' methodology. For leather goods, physical touch is the ultimate closer. The budget is allocated to expedited shipping of curated sample kits to the top 15 most promising prospects identified in the previous phase. Each sample kit must include a professional 'Wholesale Terms' document and a clear explanation of your lead times and MOQ (Minimum Order Quantity) structures to manage expectations immediately.

KEY STRATEGIC TAKEAWAY: Physical samples act as a tactile bridge to build international trust and expedite contract signing.

4. Day 6-7: CRM Integration & Pipeline Management

The final two days are dedicated to rigorous follow-ups and CRM management. International B2B buyers have long procurement cycles; we will use this time to set up follow-up sequences that provide value—such as updates on new designs or capacity availability—without appearing overly aggressive. This stage is about formalizing the negotiation process, providing wholesale price sheets, and establishing a clear timeline for production and logistics from Nepal to the international destination.

KEY STRATEGIC TAKEAWAY: Consistent, value-added follow-up is the differentiator between a one-off request and a long-term supply contract.
